Welcome

Words of Gathering

Meg Russett & Rev. Tanaka Pack

As we greet this new day, let us gather our love and courage, because we can do hard things:

Brave things

Beautiful things

Risky and transformative things.

The Sacred always journeys with us toward freedom:

For the sake of the collective life

For the sake of disrupting evil

For the sake of the human soul.

In this, our time and place:

We are called and accompanied.

We are never alone.

So, in this time set apart - may our hearts be encouraged for all that lies before us.

May it be so.

May it be so for all of us!

Please stand now, in body or in spirit, for our Hymn of Gathering

Hymn of Gathering

Gather Us In

Here in this place new light is streaming,
Shadows of doubt are vanished away.
See in this space our fears and our dreamings,
Brought here to you in the light of this day.
Gather us in, the lost and forsaken;
Gather us in; our spirits in flame.
Call to us now, and we shall awaken;
We shall arise at the sound of our name.

We are the young, our lives are a mystery;
We are the old, who yearn for your face.
We have been sung throughout all of history,
Called to be light to the whole human race.
Gather us in, the rich and the haughty;
Gather us in, the proud and the strong;
Give us a heart so meek and so lowly;
Give us the courage to enter the song.

Here we receive new life in the waters;
Here we receive the bread of new birth;
Here you shall call your sons and your daughters,
Call us anew to be salt for the earth.
Give us to drink the wine of compassion,
Give us to eat the bread that is you;
Nourish us well, and teach us to fashion
Lives that are holy and hearts that are true.

Not just in buildings, small and confining,
Not in some heaven light years away,
here in this place the new light is shining;
Now is God present, and, now is the day.
Gather us in and hold us forever;
Gather us in and make us your own;
Gather us in, all peoples together,
Fire of love in our flesh and our bone.

Prayer of Confession & Awareness

Rev. Tanaka Pack

God of freedom and liberation,
you have given us the law, spoken through prophets,
and provided us with the Spirit to help guide us
in love and justice.
Still we struggle.

*The complexities of life and the challenges of being human often win over.
In our pain, we do harm one another,
we do not intervene when our neighbors are targeted,
and we become possessive of power and resources.*

Yet you do not leave us where we are.
You call us to a new way of life and you ask us to make your dream for this world a reality.

*Forgive us, O God, where we have failed and surround us with your never ending love and hope,
as you ground our lives in mutual care and connection.*

*We pray this with gratitude for your love and grace and mercy.
Amen and Amen!*

The Lord’s Prayer

*Creator of us all,
who dwells within and beyond,
Sacred is your name.
May your holy vision for collective flourishing
come to fruition among us.
May your dreams of justice, love, compassion, and connection be enfleshed on earth.
Provide us today with what we need to be nourished
in body, soul, and heart.
Forgive us for the harm we cause as we seek to forgive those who have harmed us.
Lead us away from everything that destroys and liberate us from the hands of evil.
For you are the ultimate source of hope.
Your power-with exceeds all power-over.
Your presence incites eternal wonder.
All praise to you, our comfort and our strength.
Amen and Amen!*

[enfleshed/adpt/lvf]

Gloria Deo

Glory be to God, and to the Christ and to the Holy Ghost,
As it was in the beginning, is now and ever shall be.
World without end, Amen, Amen.

Passing of the Peace

Rev. Tanaka Pack

When we become cognizant of the fact that our everyday experiences and our gradual becoming unfolds at a pace that can’t be corralled in by clock time, then we can accept that slowing down and being present with the season of life that we are flowing through, is necessary.

Even the steps that seem unnecessary, become a part of the sacred practice of loving where we are - in this moment and time.

[adpt/enfleshed]

This morning,
May the Peace of God be with you.
And also with you!

You are invited to share this ancient greeting with a bow

Invitation to Silence and Prayer

Silence

Prayer of Our Hearts

God of sleeping and waking,
in every state of our being, be near.

In our dreams, invite us to your creative vision of what could be:
of who we could become and what we could create together.
Nourish our imagination with glimpses of justice that is full and healing that is rich.

In our waking up, may we do so with acceptance of the day that closed, and embrace the day that is opening.
May your lovingkindness guide us in both accountability to our friends, neighbors, and beloveds and in grace that keeps us from being weighed down by that which we can no longer control.

When we long to sleep but find ourselves awake
in the middle of the night, wrestling with the world, our past, our future, or anxieties that do not yet have names, may your Spirit of Peace embrace us.

When we struggle to stay awake - bone tired, soul heavy - longing for the relief that is too far off, uphold us.

And then, O God, as we move through these cycles of rest and labor, when they are balanced just right and when they are all out of whack, be the constant source that guides our life in peace, courage, and the assurance of your hope for us.

May it be so.
May it be so for all of us.
Amen and Amen.

Sharing of the Bread and the Cup

At this table we celebrate all the diverse ways we have been created. Everyone is invited to share in this feast. This morning we will receive communion with gluten free wafers and grape juice. You are invited to come forward to receive these gifts and then light a candle to signify the prayers of your heart on this day. As we share this time, we remember that this is the bread of new life and the cup of hope, given in love for each of us.

Invitation to Generosity

Meg Russett

In this community we gather together each week because we share with God, a vision.
It includes the belovedness of every one of us but it is also much bigger than any single life.
The Kindom of God is a collective reality.

Each week, we are invited to share from our resources for the work we have been called to, together.

At First Church, we consider every pledge, tithe, offering and contribution a gift for the life of our community of faith. No matter how they're given, our gifts show gratitude. You are invited to visit our website at fccla.org/give. Our hospitality team will also bring baskets for your in-person gifts during the Offertory.

SAM SCHEIBE

*"I've learned to sing a song of hope, I've said goodbye to despair,
I caught the note in a thrush's throat, I sang---and the world was fair!
I've learned to sing a song of joy It bends the skies to me,
The song of joy is the song of hope Grown to maturity.
I've learned to laugh away my tears As through the dark I go
For love and laughter conquer fears My heart has come to know.
I've learned a song of happiness It is a song of love For love alone is happiness
And happiness is love." ~Georgia Douglass Johnson*

Doxology

From all that dwell below the skies, let the Creator's praise arise!

Your name shall sound and praises soar till suns shall rise and set no more.

[adapt/Isaac Watts, 1719]

Let Justice Like Water

ST DENIO

Let justice like waters roll down on our land;
Help us O Christ Jesus, to join in your plan.
Let righteousness like ever flowing streams rise;
Come, fill and anoint us, O Spirit most wise.

Pure wisdom and justice flow forth from your hand;
With you as our guide evil forces disband.
Give us, O Christ Jesus, the grace to prevail
O'er systems and powers that keep captives held.

O may we flow freely like waters and streams;
To heal and restore broken hearts and lost dreams.
Awaken us fully to all we can be,
Reclaiming our souls as we set people free.

Let justice like waters roll down on our land;
Help us O Christ Jesus, to join in your plan.
Let righteousness like ever flowing streams rise;
Come, fill and anoint us, O Spirit most wise.

Inside The Music

The N.E.O. Voice Festival is here and with it, artists from around the world seeking the wonders of N.E.O.'s compassion-filled approach to the voice and creativity. The N.E.O. folks are all grateful to FCCLA for getting to be a part of this special community. Please join us on Wednesday 7/29 at 7:00 for Laurel's concert with Abe, and Friday 7/31 for the ExplOratorio premiere "At The End Of All Things" where we will present the concert-length piece we'll create this week. You can get a comp ticket at resonancecollective.org by using the code FCCLA.

The neuroscientist and author of "How Emotions Are Made," Lisa Feldman-Barrett, explains that scientists have shown since the 1970 that, functionally, truth is what we make it. That clear statement yields deep complexity, since we also feel truth as an essential and guiding principle in our lives. Today's music explores the growing edges of truth and how we come to understand and create with it. I've wanted to sing Fahad's "Analogy of Being" for years. Today we'll sing only the last movement. He found the text on a blackboard in a Pasadena church. It's an exploration of Thomas Aquinas, and it fits our theological space adroitly. He uses the concept of semantic satiation at the core of the music. Through repetition, the words begin to lose their meaning and we release into the wonder of their essence. Harmonically he floats a D in the sopranos over an Eb and C minor chord respectively giving the words "creator, sustainer, redeemer" and extra transformative power. Sam's setting of Georgia Douglass Johnson "I've Learned To Sing" wrestles at the heart of the truths we learn to tell ourselves. Douglass Johnson was a Harlem Renaissance playwright and poet who broke new ground as one of the first widely recognized women with this distinction. Sam's lilting, folk-inspired melody flows with the ease of the words. The poem reveals traumas behind its brightness. She explains how she chose to not let those traumas define her existence, but rather, found ways of defining life through truths that more accurately reflected the life she wanted to inhabit. The piece was originally written for younger voices, and Sam added some to the score for us making this a premiere performance. "Ka Sise Fun Iwenumo Emi" is a well known Nigerian hymn sung at celebrations as a community statement of faith and perseverance. Dami's setting that we sing this week will be a premiere performance. I am excited to welcome Dami into our space. We have premiered two of his choral/organ pieces in the past. His presence represents a perseverance of its own, and his determination to be physically present with this community, having been with us virtually from Nigeria many times. We'll only sing the last verse of his hymn setting today, and we'll premiere his newest work on Friday at the culmination of the N.E.O. Festival. Like his other pieces, "Ka Sise" rings with full timbral bliss. The Nigerian choral tradition has a long and glorious group singing history. I love listening into Dami's music to hear the sonorities embedded in his experience. Clara's "There Is Light" was the first choral piece she wrote. We are a coveted second performance. She uses sustained textures punctuated with text phrases to bring out the suspended, transformative energy of the text. She says of the piece that: "'There Is Light' was inspired by coming of age and leaving behind some of the irrational worries of childhood. It explores the bittersweetness of losing the naivety that shapes a child's worldview while offering a hopeful look towards the future, as this innocence gives way to a deeper love and appreciation for those around you. The idea of 'light' present throughout the work represents love in many forms, the discovery of passions, and newfound freedom. The chords in the opening figure evoke the image of light rising over the horizon signaling new beginnings." When we let ourselves welcome truth as an essential, but complex element of our personal experience, we begin to realize how often we relearn its presence. Perhaps more importantly, we release ourselves from the dogmatic belief in one central truth, and allow our own experience to be one among a universe of realities.
